"East Lynne," a play that has been seen by many of our citizens, comes to the Duke opera house next Saturday night. The play is a moral lesson. Every father should take his wife and daughters to see "East Lynne," swains should take their sweethearts, for the play teaches a moral lesson not taught in any other drama extant. It is a story of every day life, not shadowed entirely by the effect of sin, but relieved with light touches of humor and real life. The character of Lady Isabel, who, after having eloped, returns to her husband's home, where his second wife reigns in her own dying child, is a pathetic spectacle that teaches a never forgotten story that will bring tears to the heart of the most solid auditor.

PRICE'S BAKING POWDER

Greater in leavening strength, a spoonful raises more dough, or goes further. Working uniformly and perfectly, it makes the bread and cake always light and beautiful, and there is never a waste of good flour, sugar, butter and eggs. While it actually costs less to make a batch of biscuit with the Price Baking Powder than with the so-called cheap powders, there is the additional advantage of better and more healthful food.

He took as his text, "Judah is a lion's whelp," and the principal thought developed from it was the importance of a sturdy manhood, to the strength and durability of a nation's existence. His discourse was able, logical and instructive. All of the protestant ministers were present and each took part in the services.
